WEATHER THREATENS FIFTH ANNUAL FORD RELIABILITY TOUR

Waco Plane Leads Into Montreal; Girl Flyer Hurt

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 7.—Inclement weather today threatened to ground entries in the fifth annual Ford reliability air tour for the first time since the gala sky pageant started from Detroit on Saturday.

Weather reports received last night indicated there were a number of low pressure areas between here and Portland, Maine, where the touring planes are scheduled to stop for lunch tomorrow.

Following the arrival of the contesting planes and their accompanying convoy here today, John Livingston, flying a Waco, occupies the lead in the race of the Edsel Ford cup and its $20,000 in prize money. Livingston has 2,854 points to his credit. Art Davis in another Waco has 2,582, with the others in the lineup of the first five as follows: M. E. Zeller, Ford trimotor, 2,491; D. Morgan, Hackman, Fairchild, 2,451 and Earl Rowland, Cessna, 2,135.

Yesterday's flying, incidentally, saw the first mishap of the tour. May Haizlipp, 24-year-old girl flyer, who was one of the contestants in the women's Santa Monica to Cleveland derby in August, suffered a broken wrist when a wrench lying on the floor of her American Eagle plane flew up and struck her when she was fifteen miles outside of Toronto. Although in great pain, the game girl stuck to her stick and continued the flight to Ottawa, where luncheon stop was made. In Ottawa, the injured wrist was placed in splints and Miss Haizlipp continued on to Montreal.

Wiley Post, flying a Lockheed Vega, and George Haldeman in a Bellanca cabin plane, made the best speed for yesterday's hops.

CREDIT COSTES AND BELLONTE WITH NEW ENDURANCE RECORD

Exhausted All Fuel On Long Flight To Manchuria

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Pending further communication from the isolated outposts of Manchuria, Captain Dieudonne Costes and Maurice Bellonte, famous French airmen, were semi-officially credited today with establishing a new endurance distance record for airplanes by flying approximately 4,875 miles without a stop.

The fliers, according to word received by the French air ministry, landed near Tsitsihai, northeast of Harbin, a week ago Sunday. They took off from Le Bourget Field in a Breguet monoplane "Question Mark" on the preceding Friday.

Word that the airmen were safe came after they had virtually been given up for lost. In a brief telegram to the air ministry, Costes and Bellonte revealed they had landed safely, and had not come down until every drop of petrol had been used.

If, as is believed, the long flight was made without a stop, Costes and Bellonte have bettered by 375 miles the former distance record established by the Italian airmen, Arthur Ferrarin and Carlo Del Prete, who flew from Rome to Natal, Brazil in June 1928.

News dispatches from Tokio also told of the fliers' arrival near a station of the Trans-Siberian Railway. It is understood they intend to proceed to Tokio as soon as they obtain fuel.

OVERALL BANDIT SOUGHT BY POLICE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 7.—An "overall bandit" who was outwitted by a pretty girl cashier when he held up Lakewood's new and fashionable lake-shore hotel yesterday, was sought by police today.

The bandit ransacked a desk, obtained $32. Miss Mary Reed, cashier, saved $698 from the robber's hands by knocking an envelope, in which it was contained, to the floor with her elbow. The hold-up man failed to see the envelope and fled with only $32 loot.

ROUMANIAN DIES

BUCHAREST, Oct. 7.—G. Budagian, former president of the Roumanian high court of cassation and members of the regency council, died today.

The constitution provides for parliament to appoint a successor within five days. The Dowager Queen Marie is still the favorite candidate.

FALL BRIE TRIAL STARTED MONDAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Sup- ported into the courtroom by his physician and his daughter, and apparently so weak that he had to be lifted into an easy chair, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, went on trial today on the charge of having accepted a bribe of $100,000 from E. L. Doheny in the lease of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

Abandoning their plan to ask for a postponement because of the illness of the accused cabinet officer, Fall's attorneys brought him into court and announced their willingness to proceed.

Within a few moments after court opened, Justice William Hinsdale denied the motion they had made last week for dismissal of the indictment and the calling of a jury then began.

BINDER, NORCKAUER BUILDINGS SOLD TO ODD FELLOWS LODGE

W. Main St. Property To Be Converted Into Lodge Hall

Purchase of adjoining two-story, brick buildings at 24 and 28 W. Main St., owned by John Norckauer and H. L. Binder, as a site for the new home of Xenia Lodge, No. 52, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, was announced Monday.

The transactions were completed Saturday following negotiations which have been pending for some time, and although the purchase prices for the buildings were not disclosed, it is understood the total consideration was about $25,000.

The Norckauer Bldg. is occupied by The Direct Furniture Co. The first floor of the Binder Bldg. is occupied by the C. P. Yowler fish market while the second floor is divided into apartments, one room being used jointly by the Xenia Retail Merchant's Association and Pocahontas Lodge for meetings.

Occupancy of the first floors of the two buildings by the fish market and the furniture store will not be affected by the change of ownership.

The Norckauer Bldg. has a frontage of thirty feet and a depth of 125 feet, extending to an ally, while the adjacent structure has a frontage of twenty-feet and a depth of seventy-five feet. Within another year the lodge hopes to build an addition to the rear of the Binder Bldg.

The second floor partition separating the two buildings will be torn out and the two rooms thrown together for a lodge hall that will be forty feet in width and sixty feet in length.

The lodge had found it necessary to obtain new quarters because a three-story building it has occupied on S. Detroit St. for the last seventy-eight years has been leased to the S. S. Kresge Co., Detroit, Mich. The present lodge rooms on the second and third floors of this building will be vacated about Jan. 1, 1930.

Meanwhile extensive remodeling work to the interior of the second floor rooms of the newly-purchased buildings will be in progress in order to have the hall ready for occupancy when the lodge vacates the Clara Allen Bldg.

47 Years' Practice Taught Dr. Caldwell

Many things about Men and Women

DR. CALDWELL loved people. He studied the habits of his patients and tried to improve their ways of living. His observations over a long period of time convinced him many people were ruining their health by a careless choice of laxatives. Then he determined to write a prescription which would get at the cause of constipation and correct it quickly and safely.

How successful his efforts were is best shown by the fact that the prescription he wrote back in 1885 has become the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi.

By 1888, the demand for this laxative was so great that the doctor permitted it to be bottled and sold by drugstores. Today you can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi from any drugstore in the world.

--as advertised

HOW many times you see those words in the course of a day's shopping: "This article for sale—as advertised."

And those two words are as welcome as they are familiar, for they form a bond of confidence between the merchant and yourself. They are his guarantee to you of worth and value.

Here is an article that has been described in your newspaper. Its merits have been told; possibly, too, its price. You know exactly what you will get when you buy it. You know its quality, its utility; you know how it fits your needs. And when you buy it, you know you are getting not some unproved substitute but the specified article—as represented.

It is easy to understand why that phrase, "as advertised," creates a feeling of confidence. You have learned to depend upon consistently advertised products. You know that the maker has confidence in them, else he would not spend money calling your attention to them day after day, and month after month. You know that they have been approved by the most critical of investigators — the buying public. And above all you know from experience that buying goods "as advertised" is the best investment you can make.

It pays to read the advertisements.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

MAGNIFY THE LORD — My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God, my Saviour.—Luke 1:46, 47.

WHY SOME LIVE LONG

A man has just died in New York, at the age of 104 years, who attributed his longevity to minding his own business and not worrying over anything. We now understand why relatively fewer people in this country live to ripe old age today than crossed the scriptural deadline a generation or two ago. A relatively larger number of people are meddling in other people's business instead of minding their own.

At the same time, a considerable number of these meddlers in the affairs of others live longer than they should. We take that to mean that no longer do only the good die young, as well as that not all reformers worry themselves to death over the failure of their victims to be impressed by their efforts. A numerous class seems to worry only about the size and duration of its salaries.

As a matter of fact it is a poor and inconsequential American today who can avoid having his business minded for him by someone else. Our long-lived ancestors were not above taking an interest in the political welfare of the state or the moral welfare of its citizens; but they charged nothing for this interest. Cotton Mather was a noble exemplar of disinterested reformation. Our contemporary reformers capitalize and commercialize their trade. They will pick a site for you in the next world, a mayoral candidate in this; or will settle the affairs of nation, state or city, as long as someone pays them a salary. They live long and profitably because they leave their victims to do the worrying.

When a mechanical age offers so many unavoidable inducements to go down early to the grave, we hope that the idea of minding one's own business will be popularized, as well for the comfort of the race as for its longevity.

GOOD FOR RUM AGENTS

Some, with a thought of bettering conditions it is true, get peculiar ideas. Now they want federal prohibition enforcement agents disarmed. That also is what the rum runners and bootleggers desire. For, if the agents of law and order which are enemies of the trade, could be divested of means of self-protection, they would find themselves operating under a condition approximating a condition of formal license by law. It is quite true, of course, that many federal agents have fired pistols in a reckless way; but the remedy for that is better selection of personnel, better control of personnel once it is chosen, and prompt and severe punishment of those who commit crimes under pretense of enforcing law.

After the lobbies are all probed who is going to probe the probers, and who will check up on those that probe the probers?

Luckily Premier Ramsay MacDonald does not have to secure ratification from the Senate before getting down to work.

If abuses should cease and dishonesty disappear, reformers would have to create a lot of new sins or go to work.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

THE GREAT FALLACY

One of the great human fallacies is that men can remain stationary. Character is never motionless. Nobody can stand still more than a moment. He may be physically still but the mind and the soul, asleep or awake, must be in motion. To be stationary is simply the beginning of going backward.

We grow tired of a too active life. We seek rest, quiet, serenity. But we must not confuse serenity with complete inactivity. To move, to go forward even though by pain and by struggle, is the worth-while living. Let us not confuse the serenity of honest work well done with the calm of stagnation.

AS TO MACDONALD'S COMING

Said Charles Sumner: "Give me the money that has been spent in war, and I will clothe every man, woman and child in an attire of which kings and queens would be proud. I will build a school house in every valley over the whole earth. I will crown every hillside with a place of worship consecrated to the gospel of peace."

There have been few things more significant in all the history of America and England than the proposed face to face conference of the leaders of these two governments. The promotion of peace among men by all honorable means is the single greatest task to which the leaders of the nations of the earth can address themselves.

RUSSIA AND RELIGION

Speaking of Russia one learns, too, that the anti-religious campaign seems to be making headway. The residents of a certain part of Moscow have voted to change two churches into co-operative restaurants. And religion like Christmas, can't be touched by law. Perhaps religion and Christmas are much the same thing. Despite all governments there are thousands of people who are going to be incurably Christian.

PROMPT CONSTRUCTION OF NICARAGUA CANAL URGED

By WALTER EDGE

Senator from New Jersey

Walter Evans Edge was born at Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 20, 1874. After an education in the public schools, he began as a printer's devil on the Atlantic Review. Later he established a national and international advertising agency. He was formerly proprietor of the Atlantic City Daily Press and the Atlantic City Evening Union. He has also been identified with banking and other lines of business.

A member of the New Jersey assembly in 1910, he later served in the state senate two terms where he was president in 1915.

From 1917 to 1920 he was governor of New Jersey. In 1920 he was delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention.

Elected to the senate in 1919, he is now serving his second term.

He was recently named ambassador to France by President Hoover. He is a Spanish-American war veteran.

Economic, military and diplomatic interests require the construction of another inter-oceanic waterway, such as the proposed Nicaraguan canal.

After a lapse of 30 years the United States government has provided for the continuance of surveys along the route of the proposed canal in Nicaragua, and the first detachment of army engineers has already sailed.

Engineers have reported that the Panama canal faces the prospect of becoming overcrowded, thus confronting cargo carriers with the alternative of costly delays or again rounding Cape Horn.

Military strategists have also problem that would confront the United States navy in case the Panama canal should be crippled in time of war.

The third argument advanced in favor of a Nicaraguan canal is the increased international harmony that such a waterway would develop with Central American powers.

Considering the financial prospects of the proposed canal, it might be pointed out that revenue derived from the Panama canal in 1928 amounted to $20,000,000.

There seems to be no reason why a parallel waterway should not, in time, become self-supporting.

Construction of the proposed

Nicaragua canal involves difficulties no greater—if as great—than those encountered in the building of the Panama canal and probably none so serious as the famous Culebra cut.

SPEAKING OF PROMISING FOOTBALL PLAYERS

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

How often have your grandmothers told you about "when I was a girl?" From their word pictures of those early days in this country one gets the impression of hard, rugged women, unconcerned with such light, inconsequential things as beauty. Perfume? Why, perfume was sin!

Of course, the period of formation in this country was a difficult one. Our grandmothers had none of the marvelous facilities of modern life that transform hours of drudgery into easy, pleasurable hours of housekeeping. They had to do tasks that would frustrate us.

However, I never could be made to believe that women in any period of history, in any country, would neglect her appearance or be disinterested in beauty. Happily, several interesting findings and much reading have verified this opinion of mine. I say happily, for I truly believe that woman without desire to be beautiful is a sad creature.

I found an old novel once written in the very early nineteenth century which told of a pioneer woman, driving with her husband across the prairies into what seemed to them the Land of the Unknown. While they stopped to rest, the woman of the family took out a little pot containing a strange mixture, which she had brought all the way from her home in the east. It was a precious recipe, guaranteed to soften the skin after it was exposed to wind and inclement weather.

Patiently, there in the dead night, with only a tiny flickering candle to guide her, this pioneer woman set out to make herself beautiful.

You have this extract from the diary of a woman, dated July 15, 1861, to realize just how absorbed our grandmothers were in beauty culture:

"Dissolve one pound of epsom salts in one quart of rain water. Shake fine, three bars of white soap, and dissolve in one quart of boiling rain water, and when partly cooled, heat in the epsom salt solution. Now add two more quarts of rain water, and it is ready for use. At night rub the preparation on such parts of the body as you wish to reduce and let it dry in. Continue until desired results are obtained—also take juice of one-half lemon in cup of hot water three quarters of an hour before breakfast. Average reduction, two pounds per week."

"Tried by M. E. Steele and found good."

How many modern women would go to this trouble to prepare a reducing compound? Digging into days gone by only makes me more cognizant of the fact that today there is actually no excuse for lack of beauty, for scientific preparations and proven methods are at our command.

How our great-grandmothers would envy us if they knew!

Editor Walmsley laughs. He laughs likewise at the current story that Chairman John J. Raskob, of the Democratic national committee is backing him.

He gives a pretty convincing account of The Challenge as his own creation. He was a vehement Al Smith worker during last year's campaign, and when the New Yorker was beaten, he promptly took the warpath for 1932. The ex-governor may think he is not going to run again, but Editor Walmsley means to "show him."

Walmsley originally was a Caro-linian; later a Washington correspondent; for a good many years, more recently, a publicity adviser.

For instance, he "sold" the Holland submarine to the government.

This stunt probably has a lot of "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord," the Bible says, and I am firmly convinced that it's a mighty good plan to leave it to Him. Let's hope, as you insisted on playing Providence, that it will teach the girl a lesson—if she needed it—and just forget the matter, if you can. No use worrying over split milk.

As to your second question, your idea of starting a conversation seems to work well and is a good one. You evidently have a pleasing personality and make friends easily. It may be that as you are young you have not yet acquired the faculty of holding them for any length of time.

Or it may be that the reason that your acquaintances hardly know you after the first six months or so is accounted for by the fact that people are changeable, always running after something new, and they require a change in friends as well as clothes and amusements after that length of time.

A somewhat frail Xenia Central High School football eleven will make its 1929 Miami Valley League debut against Piqua High School in the first away-from-home game this season Saturday afternoon.

None too strong to start with, the Buccaneer squad has had difficulty recuperating from the pushing around it received in the Washington C. H. game.

The open date provided on the season's schedule last week came at an opportune time and has given the team a much-needed breathing spell before embarking on the league grind.

The possibility that Birch Bell, quarterback, who sustained a cracked collar bone in the season's opener, may be able to take part in the Piqua contest has cheered the squad. However, Central's chances received a setback when Bob Hardy, end, broke a thumb in practice a week ago and will be lost to the team for at least four weeks. Joe Smittle is practically recovered from injuries suffered in the Washington C. H. encounter.

In our recent review of the Xenia Central-O. S. and S. O. Home football game, we possibly failed to give sufficient recognition to the cadet eleven which is showing in the face of difficulties entitled it, and we take this belated opportunity to make amends to Prof. H. E. Seall and his 1929 team for the omission.

Observers who afterward saw both teams in action again believe that the Home eleven is the stronger of the two and had the game been played later in the season would have defeated the Bucs. As it was, Xenia Central won, 7 to 0.

The Home gridders suffered to a certain extent from stage fright in the early part of the game, according to Coach Seall. An example of this was seen by Xenians who attended the Washington C. H. game last Friday.

Wilmington was overawed during the early part of the struggle by Washington's impressive record this season but came to life in the second half and played the "Blue Lions" to a standstill.

O. S. and S. O. Home grid teams, records show, have always given Xenia Central elevens a run for their money. In 1926 Xenia beat the Home 6 to 0 and last year the Bucs pulled and tugged and finally won, 13 to 0. This season it was 7 to 0.

Scholastic difficulties cropped up or the 1929 Home team would be even stronger this year. When the list of ineligibles is lined up against the regular team in practice an even struggle results.

Ralph Scurry, former Xenia Central High colored star athlete, who enrolled at Wilberforce University this fall and went out for football, is making the grade. Scurry made the all-Miami Valley League mythical team last year and ranks high among the new men. His ability to punt and carry the ball has earned him the reputation of being a pre-season sensation and he is expected to break into many games this fall.

Forecasting the result of twenty-two of the more important collegiate football games Saturday, Bill Jacobs correctly predicted twenty winners. He went wrong on only two games. Instead of winning, Case lost to Baldwin-Wallace, 6 to 0, while the Wilberforce and Bluefield Institute game ended in a tie, which does not count one way or the other. The preceding week Birch Bell selected sixteen winners without a mistake. This give Xenia fans a record of thirty-six winners out of thirty-seven games for a percentage of .972. Not so worse, Jake predicted these winners:

Carnegie Tech, 26; Thiel, 0; Cincinnati, 12; Ohio Northern, 0; Denison, 20; Muskingum, 0; Detroit, 18; Dayton, 0; Harvard, 48; Bates, 0; Wooster, 33; Hiram, 0; Illinois, 25; Kansas, 0; Notre Dame, 14; Indiana, 0; Michigan, 17; Michigan State, 0; New York U., 26; W. Va. Wesleyan, 0.

Northwestern, 13; Butler, 0; Ohio State, 19; Whittenberg, 0; Ohio Wesleyan, 51; Heidelberg, 20; St. Xavier, 25; Georgetown, 13; Army, 33; Gettysburg, 7; Navy, 15; Williams-Mary, 0.

Wash. and Jeff., 60; Ashland, 0; Miami, 18; Western Reserve, 0; Wisconsin, 13; Colgate, 6.

Yale, 89; Vermont, 0.

Jake missed this one: Baldwin-Wallace, 6; Chase, 0.

HUNTER HORSE WINS

Bill Rogers, owned by N. N. Hunter, Jamestown sportsman became the third gray trotter out of Bella Strong, 2:15 1-4, to join the select list when he won the three-year-old trot at the recent Cincinnati grand circuit meeting. It is said that Bella Strong is the only mare credited with three trotters of this color with records of 2:10 or better, and also the dam of Mary Ward, 2:09 1-2, a bay. Bella Strong is a gray and her sire, Strong Boy, 2:11 1-4, one-time champion, was also a gray.

SPRINGFIELD WINS

Springfield High School, which meets Xenia Central High in the annual Turkey Day classic this fall, sprang a surprise by defeating a much heavier Columbus North eleven, 6 to 0 at Springfield Saturday afternoon. The lone touchdown of the game came in the fourth quarter.

CEDARVILLE HOLDS STRONG WILMINGTON ELEVEN TO TIE

Rising to heights never before attained by a Cedarville College team in any form of athletics since 1918, the 1929 football team representing that institution astonished by battling the heavy Wilmington College eleven to a scoreless tie the Saturday afternoon on the Quaker gridiron.

Athletic supremacy of Wilmington over Cedarville extends back to 1918 but the Cedarville team Saturday was the strongest that had faced the Quakers in years and "Shifty" Bolen's pets were fought to a standstill.

Five Wilmington regulars were on the injured list and played only in the closing minutes of the game when a forty-yard drive for a touchdown was halted by the stubborn "Yellow-Jacket" eleven on the eighth-yard line by the final gun.

Eleven

Making its debut of the 1929 season, Xenia's independent football team, the Imperials, went down to a 6 to 0 defeat in a game with the Tipp City Merchants Sunday afternoon at Tippecanoe City.

The lone touchdown of the game came shortly after the opening kick-off when the Merchants worked the ball to the twenty-yard line, from where Butch Meyers, Tipp back, circled end for a score.

The attempt for extra point failed.

During the remainder of the game the contending teams battled on practically even terms. The Imperials once penetrated inside Tipp's ten-yard line but here the defense of the Merchants stiffened and then Xenia lost possession of the ball on a fumble. That was the only other chance either team had to score.

Considering the fact it was the first game for the Imperials and also that the Xenia team had but an even dozen players available for the game, the showing was encouraging.

The Imperials were greatly outweighted but not outplayed.

Yeakley, Parks, Anderson, Perine, Keiter and Knick showed to good advantage for the losers. The backfield was made up of Williams, Webb and Clark, Dayton players, and Anderson, Murray, L. McCoy and Davis also saw action.

Coach "Fools" Clark wishes all Imperial players and any others desiring to play with the team to report at Washington Park at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday and Friday nights for practice.

Harlow and Shuey, the next batter, then collaborated to score a run. As Millard wound up Harlow raced for the plate but Shuey's attempted bunt went foul. In the eighth the Reserves solved

Millard's underhand delivery and slow, teasing curve for three hits and one less run. It was Harlow who again opened with a hit, this time a smashing double to right center. Conley lofted to center, Harlow racing to third after the catch. Durnbaugh came through with a line single to center and Harlow strolled home. Another run resulted when Durnbaugh stole second and Shuey doubled to left center. Cyphers flied out to left and Shuey went to third but was called out for leaving second before the catch was made. However, it made no difference.

Harlow and Durnbaugh led the attack of the Reserves, each with two hits. Conley and Langlois at second and short, got everything that came their way, handled fourteen changes between them cleanly and were responsible for two double plays.

Dayton had only one good opportunity to score, namely, in the first inning when Behrle, first batter, hit safely past third. Dadisman bunted and was safe when nobody covered first. Behrle advanced to third on a sacrifice fly by Gross.

On an attempted double steal Behrle was nipped at the plate while Dadisman reached second.

Shadeskey popped to Weller for the final out. After that Wells was invincible.

It was expected that Sunday's game was the final of the season but the Dayton nine challenged the Reserves for a return contest here next Sunday on a winner-take-all basis and as a result the season will be wound up next week.

Dick Wells, that sensational Bowersville southpaw artist, who seems headed for the major leagues, pitched the Reserves to a 5 to 0 shutout victory over the H. and B. O. To Shope nine of Dayton, Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, enabling the local talent to hang up its twenty-first victory of the season.

This team was booked in place of the Dayton Shroyer Cubs, runnerns in the recent amateur tournament of the National Baseball Federation and is rated as the second best club in the Gem City inasmuch as it lost to the Shroyers in a play-off series to decide the city championship and Dayton's representative in the national amateur tourney.

Wells was in great form. He allowed seven hits that were well distributed, struck out seven batters and exhibited perfect control. He was particularly effective with runners on base and only one Dayton player progressed beyond the middle station.

His Jack Dempsey ball came in weaving and bobbing over the plate and he mixed his fast one with a nice change of pace that had the opposition completely buffeted. Two snappy double plays aided his cause as well as the well-nigh perfect support he was accorded both at bat and in the field.

Millard, Dayton pitcher, also yielded only seven hits and his puzzling style of delivery had the Reserves fooled until the latter part of the contest.

For five innings the game was a tight mound battle. Reserves tallied one run in the third when Behrle jugged Harlow's roller and then pegged wildly to first.

The score remained at 1 to 0 until the sixth when the Reserves bunched two hits, which with a sacrifice and an error, were good for a pair of runs. "Chick" Harlow opened the frame with a single, his first safe bunt since joining the Reserves several weeks ago. This apparently cheered the team. Conley laid down a nice bunt and while he was being thrown out at first, Harlow made second easily, but overslid the bag. Trapped off second and third he finally got back safely. A single by Durnbaugh advanced him to third and Durnbaugh took second on a sacrifice fly to Langlois and scored.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDER," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N, INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

CHAPTER XLVIII

She hung up and went to her apartment. To the devil and Tom Walker with this being good! It didn't get you anywhere! Where had it got Billie? Where Winnie? For Winnie was only rough and ready, Chatty knew, but to all Bryant's suggestions that they make a party of it with some of them, she turned a deaf ear.

"Don't want any party! Want to be with you!" whispered Chatty.

Bryant ordered the "Las." "I'll drink." Then he excused himself for a moment, saying he wanted to see a man he knew, across the room.

Then she bathed her eyes and made up her face, changed her dress and went out of the apartment.

"Pud? Oh, Pud!"

"Umph!" answered Pud. "Lemme 'pone!"

"Want to make a dollar?"

"Money talks!" cried Pud, coming on the run. "What you want me to do for a dollar?"

"Swear you'll keep your mouth shut, first!"

"Word of honor!"

Chatty took a five-dollar bill out of her slender purse.

"Go get me some gin, and bring it to me; don't let anyone see you!"

Pud looked startled, then grinned.

"On my way!" he said.

A still, small voice clamored for Chatty's attention. She knew what it was trying to say to her: "What a terrible thing to do—help make your own little brother a booteege!" Send him to do the very thing you've fought against his doing, confessing to him that you think more of a drink than of his morals!"

But Chatty wouldn't listen. She thrust the thought from her.

"What's it to me? They can all go to the devil, for all I care!" she told herself, passionately. "Pud, too! I don't care, I tell you, I don't care!"

Chatty walked the floor of her room, back and forth, back and forth, hideously anxious for Pud.

There would come a reaction, she knew.

"But by the time that comes I won't care!" she declared to herself. For once Chatty didn't deceive herself.

"Chatty! Oh, Chatty!" Her mother's pleasant voice interrupted her evil thoughts.

"Yes, mother!" Chatty's voice was impatient. She didn't want to see or talk to her mother just now.

"Come here, dear. I want you."

Chatty came out of her room, resolute. "Well, what is it?" she snapped.

"I'm sorry. But I want you to take this dress and go to the north side with it, after dinner. Do you mind? I'm too tired to go myself!"

"I've a date. I can't take it!" answered Chatty, shortly. "I can't be errand girl after working all day!"

She went back to her room and slammed the door.

Chatty dressed, refusing supper, and stole out of the apartment to meet Bryant sharply at seven-thirty.

At the last moment she decided not to take the alcohol Pud had brought. Oh, lucky Chatty, not to have it in the car—leaving it to Bryant to stage the rest of the evening's amusement.

Bryant ordered all sorts of drinks at the Lollipop. He flirted with her, and only with her, having eyes for no other girl.

Chatty had dressed in her best and prettiest; the little nile green chiffon evening dress, all fluffy revealingness and diaphanous folds. It was too short, and too low, and too thin, but that was the way Chatty's soul felt: short and low and thin, and as if anyone could see it.

She danced every dance, wholeheartedly, vigorously, throwing herself into the abandonment of the moment with all her zest.

It helped to stifle her thoughts.

For even underneath the intoxication and bright lights and dancing and gaiety, a grave face knocked at the door of her heart and eyes looked into hers reproachfully.

Ah, David, David.

"To the devil with him!" cried Chatty, aloud.</p

The Theater

Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and of the Vitaphone Corporation, once helped operate a bicycle shop in Youngstown, O., at the height of the bicycle craze.

Harry was born in Russia but came to this country when he was six years of age, the family settling in Baltimore. Through school he obtained a position with Armour and Co., and soon became a salesman. He remained in that position some years, and then opened the bicycle shop with his three brothers.

When they saw the motion picture they believed it a coming in-

Harry brought his three brothers with him to produce a motion picture based on Ambassador James W. Gerard's book, "My Four Years in Germany." Success put them back on the movie map. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., was soon organized and expanded rapidly. A studio in Hollywood was acquired and Vitaphone Pictures was purchased, giving them an Eastern studio and a series of exchanges.

Then came their venture into talking pictures after all other producers had turned the idea down. Under their auspices, after many weary months of experiment and the expenditure of a great amount of money, Vitaphone was introduced to the public at Warner Bros. Theater in New York the night of Tuesday, August 6, 1926. That night proved a historic event in motion pictures, from its developing Vitaphone talking pictures, features and short subjects, which put Warner's at the top of the industry. The Stanley Co. of America was purchased and First National Pictures, Inc., became a subsidiary of Warner's. The firm of Witmark and Sons, music publishers, was also purchased to give the company access to a vast amount of published music.

George Marlow will portray the father role he created on the stage in the talkie version of "Anna Christie", featuring Greta Garbo. Marlow also played the same part in the earlier Thomas Ince picture of Eugene O'Neill's famous play. Charlie Bickford will play opposite Garbo if he completes his current job in time. The late William Russell was the star in the Ince version of this picture. The picture will be directed by Clarence Brown and is the Garbo's first talkie effort.

Theda Bara is going in vaudeville and the column today shows her on her way.

Twenty Years '09- Ago '29

Four of the Pennsylvania passenger trains, two through fliers and two locals, were delayed in Xenia for time because of a blockade at Trebein caused by a burning oil car.

Frank Mitchener, tenant on a farm on the Wilmington Pike, was thrown from his horse and his left leg was so severely sprained he is obliged to use crutches in walking.

Mr. Andrew Hanlinger arrived home from his hunting trip in Manitoba.

James Adair, who has been on the road for a Panama hat company for several weeks, spent the day at his home in Xenia and says he likes the work of a traveling salesman.

Next the Warner boys went into the market and bought feature pictures which they released under the title of Warner Features, becoming active competitors in the film industry. A few years later they were forced to abandon their exchanges and Warner Features, and for the first time in many years the brothers went separate ways.

It was not long however until

MUSIC FOR TYPISTS

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 7.—Typewriting pupils in the commercial department of the Manheim Township High School near here have music while they work, not for pleasure, but to help them. In order to attain speed at typewriting each pupil must acquire certain rhythm in striking the keyboard. John F. Lotz, the instructor explained. "In an endeavor to reach rhythm and timing we hit upon the modern reproducing machine. Popular marches that carry the same rhythm throughout are used," he said.

AND SPRAYING ARE NEED OF POTATOES

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7.—Neither good seed alone, nor a lot of fertilizer alone, nor much spraying alone, will make a profitable crop of potatoes, it takes a combination of all three. Exact details of the cost of producing a bushel of potatoes have been collected from growers of 762 acres in Ohio, by E. B. Tussing, extension specialist in vegetable gardening for the Ohio State University here.

Tussing discovered that the men who raised 350 bushels or more to the acre, did so at an average cost of less than thirty-five cents a bushel. The men whose yields fell below 100 bushels to the acre, paid out $1.64 for each bushel which they obtained—a figure considerably higher than the price they received for their potatoes.

The men whose yields fell between 100 and 200 bushels to the acre paid slightly over seventy-seven cents a bushel, not counting the cost of labor in grading and marketing, with the result that they lost money on their crops.

The men harvesting less than one hundred bushels to the acre planted more seed potatoes, by one bushel to the acre, than the men who harvested more than 350 bushels an acre, and the cost of their seed was higher.

For manure, green manure, and commercial fertilizer the men with the biggest yields paid the highest amounts per acre. They spent $37.40 an acre for fertility while the 100 and 200 bushel men spent $24.10, and the less than 100 bushel men spent $23.04.

When it comes to spraying the men with the highest yields sprayed their crops an average of 9.7 times during the season, at a cost of $7.57 an acre. The men who grew 100 to 200 bushels sprayed seven times during the season at a cost of $6.61 an acre, and the men who got less than 100 bushels a acre sprayed only 5.6 times at a cost of $3.62.

CAT MOTHERS TWO MOTHERLESS PUPS

POMEROY, O., Oct. 7.—Every so often nature nods, and Meigs County is not immune from such happenings.

The most unique occurrence of an incident so contrary to nature, occurred at the home of Isaac Lambert, who resides on a farm near Bradbury, this county.

On the same day, a Maltese cat gave birth to several kittens and a fox terrier gave birth to two puppies. In less than three days the mother dog and the kittens died.

The mother instinct of the cat prompted her to adopt the two little three-day-old puppies. The little dogs are fine and healthy and the cat is just as proud of them as if they were her own. When they get into trouble she goes to their aid. When they fight she separates them. She feeds them regularly and does everything which a devout mother kitten should do.

STATE FUNDS WILL MEET 1929 EXPENSES

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7.—The state of Ohio will have sufficient revenue to meet estimated expenditures during 1929, according to a survey by the Research and Information Department of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

A study of receipts to date indicate that the forecast of $32,195,000 for the general fund, made in January of this year, is being realized. Franchise taxes collected thus far are $5,610,379 as compared with an estimate of $5,570,000 for the entire year. This collection thus exceeds the estimate by $40,000.

Incorporation fees for the first seven months of this year amounted to $971,781. The estimate for the entire year is $1,400,000.

Inheritance taxes amounted to $1,352,647 on July 31. The estimate for the year is $2,500,000.

WEATHER THREATENS
FIFTH ANNUAL FORD
RELIABILITY TOURWaco Plane Leads Into
Montreal; Girl Flyer
Hurt

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 7.—Inclement weather today threatened to ground entries in the fifth annual Ford reliability air tour for the first time since the gala sky pageant started from Detroit on Saturday.

Weather reports received last night indicated there were a number of low pressure areas between here and Portland, Maine, where the touring planes are scheduled to stop for lunch tomorrow.

Following the arrival of the competing planes and their accompanying convoy here today, John Livingston, flying a Waco, occupies the lead in the race of the Edsel Ford cup and its $20,000 in prize money. Livingston has 2,854 points to his credit. Art Davis in another Waco has 2,582, with the others in the heap of the first five as follows: M. E. Zeller, Ford trimotor, 2,491; D. Morgan, Hackman, Fairchild, 2,451 and Earl Rowland, Cessna, 2,135.

Yesterday's flying, incidentally, saw the first mishap of the tour. May Haizlipp 24-year-old girl flyer, who was one of the contestants in the women's Santa Monica to Cleveland derby in August, suffered a broken wrist when a wrench lying on the floor of her American Eagle plane flew up and struck her when she was fifteen miles outside of Toronto. Although in great pain, the girl stuck to her stick and continued the flight to Ottawa, where luncheon stop was made. In Ottawa, the injured wrist was placed in splints and Miss Haizlipp continued on to Montreal.

Wiley Post, flying a Lockheed Vega, and George Haldean in a Bellanca cabin plane, made the best speed for yesterday's hops.

CREDIT COSTES AND BELLONTE WITH NEW ENDURANCE RECORDExhausted All Fuel On Long Flight To Manchuria

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Pending further communication from the isolated outposts of Manchuria, Captain Eudeonne Costes and Maurice Bellonte, famous French airmen, were semi-officially credited today with establishing a new endurance distance record for airplanes by flying approximately 4,875 miles without a stop.

The fliers, according to word received by the French air ministry, landed near Tsinshihbar, northeast of Harbin, a week ago Sunday. They took off from Le Bourget Field in a Breguet monoplane "Question Mark" on the preceding Friday.

Word that the airmen were safe came after they had virtually given up for lost. In a brief telegram to the air ministry, Costes and Bellonte revealed they had landed safely, and had not come down until every drop of petrol had been used.

If, as is believed, the long flight was made without a stop, Costes and Bellonte have bettered by 375 miles the former distance record established by the Italian airmen, Arthurino and Carlo Del Prete, who flew from Rome to Natal, Brazil in June 1928.

News dispatches from Tokio also told of the fliers' arrival near a station of the Trans-Siberian Railway. It is understood they intend to proceed to Tokio as soon as they obtain fuel.

FALL BRIBE TRIAL
STARTED MONDAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Supposed into the courtroom by his physician and his daughter, and apparently so weak that he had to be lifted into an easy chair, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, went on trial today on the charge of having accepted a bribe of $100,000 from E. L. Doheny in the lease of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

Abandoning their plan to ask for a postponement because of the illness of the accused ex-captain, Fall's attorneys brought him into court and announced their willingness to proceed.

Within a few moments after court opened, Justice William Hins denied the motion they had made last week for dismissal of the indictment and the calling of a jury then began.

BINDER, NORCKAUER BUILDINGS SOLD TO
ODD FELLOWS LODGEW. Main St. Property To Be Converted Into Lodge Hall

Purchase of adjoining two-story, brick buildings at 24 and 28 W. Main St., owned by John Norckauer and H. L. Binder, as a site for the new home of Xenia Lodge, No. 52, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, was announced Monday.

The transactions were completed Saturday following negotiations which have been pending for some time, and although the purchase prices for the buildings were not disclosed, it is understood the total consideration was about $25,000.

The Norckauer Bldg. is occupied by The Direct Furniture Co. The first floor of the Binder Bldg. is occupied by the C. P. Yowler Bldg. market while the second floor is divided into apartments, one room being used jointly by the Xenia Retail Merchant's Association and Pocahontas Lodge for meetings.

Occupancy of the first floors of the two buildings by the fish market and the furniture store will not be affected by the change of ownership.

The Norckauer Bldg. has a frontage of thirty feet and a depth of 125 feet, extending to an alley, while the adjacent structure has a frontage of twenty-feet and a depth of seventy-five feet. Within another year the Lodge hopes to build an addition to the rear of the Binder Bldg.

The second floor partition separating the two buildings will be torn out and the two rooms thrown together for a large hall that will be forty feet in width and sixty feet in length.

The Lodge had found it necessary to obtain new quarters because a three-story building it has occupied on S. Detroit St. for the last seventy-eight years has been leased to the S. S. Kresge Co., Detroit, Mich. The present Lodge rooms on the second and third floors of this building will be vacated about January 1, 1930.

Meanwhile extensive remodeling work to the interior of the second floor rooms of the newly-purchased buildings will be in progress in order to have the hall ready for occupancy when the Lodge vacates the Clara Allen Bldg.

The Lodge had found it necessary to obtain new quarters because a three-story building it has occupied on S. Detroit St. for the last seventy-eight years has been leased to the S. S. Kresge Co., Detroit, Mich. The present Lodge rooms on the second and third floors of this building will be vacated about January 1, 1930.

Despite the efforts of the court to reduce delay and to prevent convicted criminals from using the high court to escape immediate sentences by advancing these cases, the court was faced by a docket which is expected to grow to nearly 1,200 cases during the winter.

Every effort is to be made by the high court to completely "catch up" with its business before June. Such progress was made last year that arguments were suspended early because no cases were ready to be heard.

Having disposed of some of the most important cases ever before the court last year, the Supreme Court's docket contained comparatively few matters regarded as of importance.

OVERALL BANDIT
SOUGHT BY POLICE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 7.—An "overall bandit" who was outwitted by a pretty girl cashier when he held up Lakewood's new and fashionable lake-shore hotel yesterday, was sought by police today.

The bandit ransacked a desk, obtained $32. Miss Mary Reed, cashier, saved $693 from the robber's hands by knocking an envelope, in which it was contained, to the floor with her elbow. The hold-up man failed to see the envelope and fled with only $32 loot.

ROUMANIAN DIES

BUCHAREST, Oct. 7.—G. Buzdugan, former president of the Roumanian high court of cassation and members of the regency council, died today.

The constitution provides for parliament to appoint a successor within five days. The Dowager Queen Marie is still the favorite candidate.

STRIKE PARALYZES NEW YORK PRODUCE MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Approximately $6,000,000 worth of fruit and vegetables, much of it highly perishable, lay on barges and in freight cars in and about New York City today threatened with deterioration as the result of the strike of 2,000 market teamsters and truck drivers which has paralyzed the produce market and threatened a food crisis.

Without having a single banner or provoking the least disorder against 200 special patrolmen as signed to the market districts, the workers marched out last night. The walkout came just as state and federal labor officials were planning to renew their efforts to day for a conciliation between drivers and owners.

The drivers are demanding an eight hour day and time and a half for overtime. With the walkout actually in effect, there is no hope of the piled up supply of edibles being distributed before tonight at the earliest, and tremendous losses are expected to result.

CONSUMERS' COUNSEL TO AID
TARIFF COMMISSION PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Sponsored by Senator George (D) of Georgia. He suggested the president be authorized to choose a prominent attorney for the post at a salary of $12,000 a year. The counsel's duties would be to see that the consuming public, heretofore voiceless and unrepresented in any change of tariff duties would participate in the commission's deliberations.

This proposal furnished the material for a skirmish in the tariff war and while it was opposed by administration leaders, they showed little interest in the outcome. The Republican leadership was more concerned about the pending motion of Senator Thomas Democrat of Oklahoma, for recommitment of the bill to the Senate Finance Committee with instructions that all industrial rates be eliminated. If this motion should carry, it would leave the tariff bill bereft of industrial rates and containing only the administrative features and the agricultural schedule.

"We have no fear of the outcome of Senator Thomas' motion," observed Senator Watson, Republican of Indiana, the majority leader. "It will be defeated by a much larger majority than voted previously against limiting tariff revision to the agricultural schedule. There is no doubt but the motion will be defeated."

The Thomas motion will mark the second attempt to eliminate at one sweep all the industrial rates.

The first effort was led by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, and it was defeated by the margin of a single vote. Since then, increased rates have been levied on industrial products in two score states, and the voting will be quite different.

The battle over specific rates will get under way this week probably tomorrow. There will be a stiff struggle between the Republican organization and the Democratic-Insurgent alliance to dominate the situation. Unbiased observers anticipated a constant ebb and flow of fortune for each group, since party lines will be broken on virtually every rate. The coalition, however, will concentrate its greatest efforts on reducing the Republican rates given to sugar, pig-iron, steel, watches, hides, leather, shoes, cotton and woolen goods. In these contests, they may win more often than they lose.

An intimation of the calibre of the opposition was given by Senator King, Democrat of Utah.

"In the face of pertinent criticism," said King, "our Republican friends—but not the progressives—have lined up in a solid phalanx in support of extortionate industrial rates, which have been condemned by economists and by the liberal thought of this country.

GENERAL PULASKI
HONORED BY POLES

CLEVELAND, Oct. 7.—A meeting of the State Pulaski Memorial Commission was called here for today by Ernest J. Bohn, chairman, to select a delegation which will attend the national exercises Sunday at Savannah and to discuss a proposed Pulaski monument which may be erected in Cleveland.

More than 5,000 Clevelanders, most of them of Polish descent, paraded in Cleveland yesterday opening the sesquicentennial anniversary of the death of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, killed in action, October 11, 1779, as he led his American revolutionary legion against the British at Savannah.

Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, who attended the celebration, sketched briefly the life of the cavalry leader in an address given at the anniversary ceremonies.

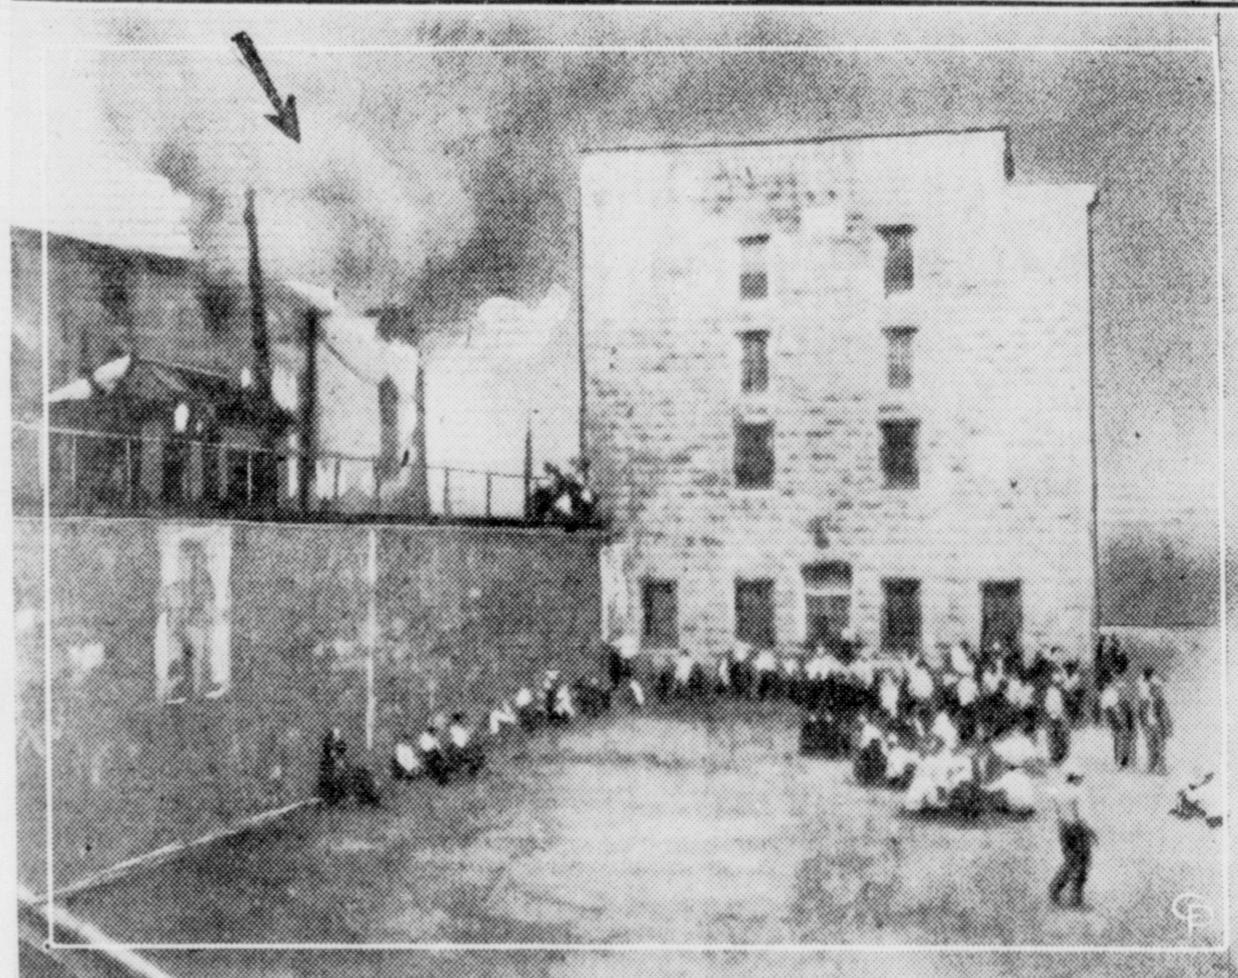

"Not only will this celebration do honor to his memory," Gov. Cooper said, "but it will stand as proof that America does not forget those who made the supreme sacrifice that the nation might exist."

INVITATIONS WILL BE ISSUED TUESDAY
TO LONDON MEETING

Call Five-Power Conference For Next January

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Prompt acceptances by Japan, France and Italy are expected here to the invitations which go out tomorrow, setting a five-power naval disarmament conference for the third week in January, in London.

France may accept with her fingers crossed, but she will accept nevertheless—if for no other reason than that no nation can afford to be placed in the position of refusing to discuss a problem that has so vital a bearing on the peace of the world.

As a matter of fact, the Japanese, French and Italian governments have kept closely in touch with the Hoover-MacDonald negotiations throughout, and have known at all times substantially the position of both Great Britain and the United States. Their ambassadors in London and in Washington have been constantly advised of the progress made and the hitches encountered.

A particular point of this has been made in order to allay as much as possible of the suspicion that inevitably attaches itself to such negotiations as President Hoover and Premier MacDonald have been carrying on.

Even so, it is undeniable that there exists in France a somewhat cynical attitude toward the conference which Britain is sponsoring, but which really is a joint Anglo-American undertaking. The French press has reflected an attitude of suspicion, and the French press usually takes its tone from the French foreign office.

The invitations are to be carefully phrased, with emphasis placed upon the contribution such a conference may make to the cause of world peace, rather than on the purely naval aspects of the parley.

This was one of the chief points worked out by President Hoover and the British prime minister in their week end visit to the Blue Ridge fishing camp.

The British were at first inclined to incorporate in the text of the invitations the general outline of the cruiser agreement worked out between the United States and Great Britain. The American government did not approve of this, and it was this difference in opinion that held up the actual issuance of the invitations for several weeks. In the idyllic settings chosen by Mr. Hoover for his conference with Mr. MacDonald, the difference was specifically dissolved with the American view prevailing.

With the invitations to the parley actually on the cables, discussion today naturally turned to the prospects of its success.

The degree of limitation to be achieved must inevitably depend upon the attitude of the other powers, Japan, France and Italy.

Great Britain and the United States are substantially in accord on all classes of navy fighting ships, and the basis is parity between themselves. The actual tonnage to be maintained by both countries will go up or down depending upon the tonnage which the smaller powers insist upon for themselves. If France and Italy insist upon big establishments, the British and American navies will automatically go up, and vice versa. The present ratio is to be maintained irrespective of the results of the conference.

It is taken for granted that Secretary of State Stimson will head the American delegation. Ambassador Dawes naturally will be included because he is on the ground and is conversant with the whole undertaking. It is also expected that Rear-Admiral Hilary Jones, the chief naval delegate at the ill-starred Geneva conference, will be present.

Concerning the rest of the American delegation there is considerable speculation. The belief is general that President Hoover will profit from the experience of Woodrow Wilson and have senatorial representation on the delegation.

Borah is chairman of the foreign relations committee and Swanson is the ranking Democrat on the committee. There is considerable doubt, however, whether Borah would take the assignment. Borah has his own ideas of what should be accomplished—or discussed at the conference, and they are not entirely in accord with the Hoover-MacDonald ideas.

John W. Davis, with his fine background of international law, his prominence as the Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1924, and his experience as ambassador to Great Britain, is considered a very probable selection.

The Hoover-MacDonald conversations virtually come to a close tonight. Tomorrow, the British visitor concludes his visit to the White House and goes back to the British Embassy to stay until Thursday. Tomorrow and Wednesday, MacDonald will have an opportunity to meet and talk with other officials of the administration, and with members of Congress—including, of course, Senator Borah.

CULT INVESTIGATED AS POLICE
FIND GIRL'S BODY DEAD 4 YEARS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—Mystic records of a strange medieval religious cult today were under scrutiny of police working on the theory that "Princess" Willa Rhoads, 19-year-old member, met her death as a human sacrifice.

Police found the girl's body beneath the floor of her parents' Venice residence. She had been dead four years, her body carefully hidden under floors of several different homes her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rhoads, occupied. There were no indications of violence.

Beside her steel casket was an inscription which read, "We have no fear of the outcome of the cult's trial." The cult's discovery followed Mrs. Blackburn's arrest at request of Clifford Dabney, oil operator who charged she defrauded him of $40,000.

Dabney, former cult member, said it based its belief on Mrs. Blackburn's book, which he said was to disclose the "lost measurements" leading to rich gold and petroleum deposits.

QUARTET ARRESTED IN COVINGTON, KY.
"HIJACKER" DEATHSlaying Of Youth Is Cleared By Confession

COVINGTON, Ky., Oct. 7.—The story of how a quartet of "hijackers" allegedly shot and killed a youthful liquor runner for fifty gallons of whiskey, had been told to county authorities today and they believe they have solved the slaying of Wilbur White, 19-year-old liquor runner and would-be gangster.

Accompanied by his father, James Klump, 24, a former leading pugilist, walked into the police station here yesterday and said that he was one of the four men who participated in the "hijacking" of White's liquor-laden car.

He declared that he and three companions were the passengers in two cars which had been turned sideways in the road to block the street.

Graham McNamee, premier sports announcer for all big events, will be at the microphone at Wrigley Field, Chicago and at Shibe Park, Philadelphia. 47 Years' Practice Taught Dr. Caldwell

Many things about Men and Women

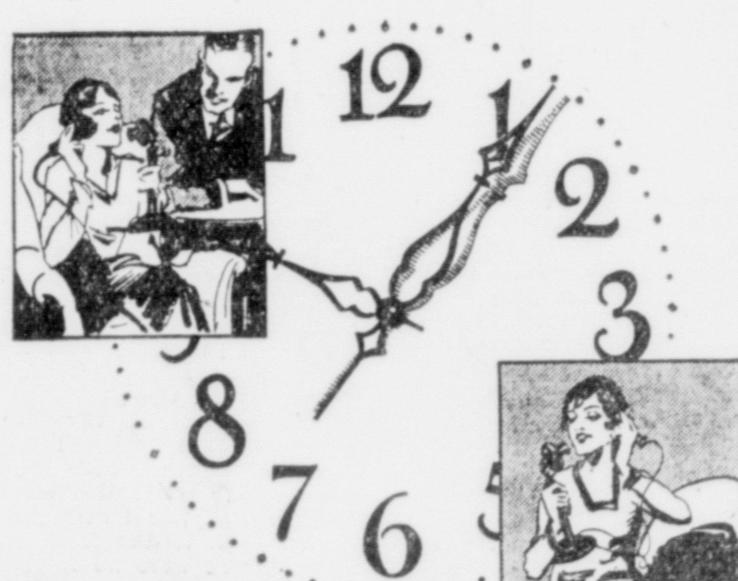

DR. CALDWELL loved people. He studied the habits of his patients and tried to improve their ways of living. His observations over a long period of time convinced him many people were ruining their health by a careless choice of laxatives. Then he determined to write a prescription which would get at the cause of constipation and correct it quickly and safely.

How successful his efforts were is best shown by the fact that the prescription he wrote back in 1885 has become the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness, and lack of appetite, or energy showed him that the bowels of men, women or children were sluggish. It proved successful in the most obstinate cases. So men liked it. Old folks liked it because it never gripes. Children liked its pleasant taste. And everybody is pleased with the gentle way it accomplishes its purpose.

By 1888, the demand for this laxative was so great that the doctor permitted it to be bottled and sold by drugstores. Today you can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from any drugstore in the world.

“--as advertised”

HOW many times you see those words in the course of a day's shopping: "This article for sale—as advertised."

And those two words are as welcome as they are familiar, for they form a bond of confidence between the merchant and yourself. They are his guarantee to you of worth and value.

Here is an article that has been described in your newspaper. Its merits have been told; possibly, too, its price. You know exactly what you will get when you buy it. You know its quality, its utility; you know how it fits your needs. And when you buy it, you know you are getting not some unproved substitute but the specified article—as represented.

It is easy to understand why that phrase, "as advertised," creates a feeling of confidence. You have learned to depend upon consistently advertised products. You know that the maker has confidence in them, else he would not spend money calling your attention to them day after day, and month after month. You know that they have been approved by the most critical of investigators—the buying public. And above all you know from experience that buying goods "as advertised" is the best investment you can make.

It pays to read the advertisements.

The Rev. and Mrs. Brill were the recipients of many lovely gifts from members of the congregation.

CHURCH APPEALS TO INDIVIDUAL SAYS MINISTER SUNDAY

"The church is not trying to hypnotize young people with a religious organization. Rather, the church is anxious to know that the young people count for something," declared the Rev. Rudolph G. Schulz Jr., Columbus, at the Luther League meeting held in the First Lutheran Church here Sunday evening.

The Rev. Mr. Schulz is a seminary classmate of the Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, pastor of the local Lutheran Church. He is the executive secretary of the Luther Leagues of Ohio, which position he has held for the past two years.

During his address to the local League he related how business and commercialism are increasing with machinery and how human power is on the decline. He averred that, "The individual is counting for less and less in the industrial world." Many veterans of industry are being relieved of their positions, and machinery is being substituted, he said.

"This situation can never exist in the church. Here the individual will always count for something. The Luther League is endeavoring to make somebody out of someone by first keeping Christ central and by well planned meetings."

The Rev. Mr. Schulz also announced that the Southern Luther League convention will be held in Urbana, O., November 15 and 16. Several members of the local League will attend.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

MAGNIFY THE LORD — My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God, my Saviour.—Luke 1:46, 47.

WHY SOME LIVE LONG

A man has just died in New York, at the age of 104 years, who attributed his longevity to minding his own business and not worrying over anything. We now understand why relatively fewer people in this country live to ripe old age today than crossed the scriptural deadline a generation or two ago. A relatively larger number of people are meddling in other people's business instead of minding their own.

At the same time, a considerable number of these meddlers in the affairs of others live longer than they should. We take that to mean that no longer do only the good die young, as well as that not all reformers worry themselves to death over the failure of their victims to be impressed by their efforts. A numerous class seems to worry only about the size and duration of its salaries.

As a matter of fact it is a poor and inconsequential American today who can avoid having his business minded for him by someone else. Our long-lived ancestors were not above taking an interest in the political welfare of the state or the moral welfare of its citizens; but they charged nothing for this interest. Cotton Mather was a noble exemplar of disinterested reformation. Our contemporary reformers capitalize and commercialize their trade. They will pick a site for you in the next world, a mayoral candidate in this; or will settle the affairs of nation, state or city, as long as someone pays them a salary. They live long and profitably because they leave their victims to do the worrying.

When mechanical age offers so many unavoidable inducements to go down early to the grave, we hope that the idea of minding one's own business will be popularized, as well for the comfort of the race as for its longevity.

GOOD FOR RUM AGENTS

Some, with a thought of bettering conditions it is true, get peculiar ideas. Now they want federal prohibition enforcement agents disarmed. That also is what the rum runners and bootleggers desire. For, if the agents of law and order which are enemies of the trade, could be divested of means of self-protection, they would find themselves operating under a condition approximating a condition of formal license by law. It is quite true, of course, that many federal agents have red pistols in a reckless way; but the remedy for that is better selection of personnel, better control of personnel once it is chosen, and prompt and severe punishment of those who commit crimes under pretense of enforcing law.

After the lobbies are all probed who is going to probe the probers, and who will check up on those that probe the probers?

Luckily Premier Ramsay MacDonald does not have to secure ratification from the Senate before getting down to work.

If abuses should cease and dishonesty disappear, reformers would have to create a lot of new sins or go to work.

The toughest test of the post-vacation season is the process of recurring to civilized table manners.

There are things worse than a climate that declines to produce temperamental fox trotting hurricanes.

NEW YORK—Bill Tell, one of the town's Big League dramatic reviewers, writes his stuff at home after the show. Bill is the proud parent of a three-year-old potential president of the United States, whose previous name is Addison. When Pop comes breezing in around midnight, full of bitterness and grief over the decadence of the drama, and sits down to hammer out his "piece" for the next day's run, young Mr. Addison Tell leaves his crib, meanders into the Thinkerie in his bare feet and perches himself on the Old Man's rosewood desk between the bottle opener and the Oxford dictionary, where he keeps vigil till the Boss has finished.

Bill says that weeks when there are five or six openings Addison doesn't get any more sleep than Tom Edison.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

THE GREAT FALLACY

One of the great human fallacies is that man can remain stationary. Character is never motionless. Nobody can stand still nor more than a moment. He may be physically still but the mind and the soul, asleep or awake, must be in motion. To be stationary is simply the beginning of going backward.

We grow tired of a too active life. We seek rest, quiet, serenity. But we must not confuse serenity with complete inactivity. To move, to go forward even though by pain and by struggle, is the worth-while living. Let us not confuse the serenity of honest work well done with the calm of stagnation.

AS TO MACDONALD'S COMING

Said Charles Summer: "Give me the money that has been spent in war, and I will clothe every man, woman and child in an attire of which kings and queens would be proud. I will build school house in every valley over the whole earth. I will crown every hillside with a place of worship consecrated to the gospel of peace."

There have been few things more significant in all the history of America and England than the proposed face to face conference of the leaders of these two governments. The promotion of peace among men by all honorable means is the single greatest task to which the leaders of the nations of the earth can address themselves.

RUSSIA AND RELIGION

Speaking of Russia one learns, too, that the anti-religious campaign seems to be making headway. The residents of a certain part of Moscow have voted to change two churches into co-operative restaurants. And religion, like Christmas, can't be touched by law. Perhaps religion and Christmas are much the same thing. Despite all governments there are thousands of people who are going to be incurably Christian.

PROMPT CONSTRUCTION OF NICARAGUA CANAL URGED

By WALTER EDGE
Senator from New Jersey (Walter Evans Edge was born at Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 20, 1874. After an education in the public schools, he began as a printer's devil on the Atlantic Review. Later he established a national and international advertising agency. He was formerly proprietor of the Atlantic City Daily Press and the Atlantic City Evening Union. He has also been identified with banking and other lines of business. A member of the New Jersey assembly in 1910, he later served in the state senate two terms where he was president in 1915. From 1917 to 1920 he was governor of New Jersey. In 1920 he was delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention. Elected to the senate in 1919, he is now serving his second term. He was recently named ambassador to France by President Hoover. He is a Spanish-American war veteran.)

Economic, military and diplomatic interests require the construction of another inter-oceanic waterway, such as the proposed Nicaraguan canal.

After a lapse of 30 years the United States government has provided for the continuance of surveys along the route of the proposed canal in Nicaragua, and the first detachment of army engineers has already sailed.

Engineers have reported that the Panama canal faces the prospect of becoming overcrowded, thus confronting cargo carriers with the alternative of costly delays or again rounding Cape Horn.

Military strategists have also called attention to the serious problem that would confront the United States navy in case the Panama canal should be crippled in time of war.

The third argument advanced in favor of a Nicaraguan canal is the increased international harmony that such a waterway would develop with Central American

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RURINSTEIN

How often have your grandmothers told you about "when I was a girl"? From their word pictures of those early days in this country one gets the impression of hard, rugged women, unconcerned with such light, inconsequential things as beauty. Perfume? Why, perfume was a sin!

Of course, the period of formation in this country was a difficult one. Our grandmothers and great-grandmothers had none of the marvelous facilities of modern life that transform hours of drudgery into easy, pleasurable hours of housekeeping. They had to do tasks that would frighten us.

However, I never could be made to believe that women in any period of history, in any country, would neglect her appearance or be disinterested in beauty. Happily, several interesting findings and much reading have verified this opinion of mine. I say happily, for I truly believe that woman without desire to be beautiful is a sad creature.

I found an old novel once written in the very early nineteenth century which told of a pioneer woman, driving with her husband across the prairies into what seemed to them the Land of the Unknown. While they stopped to rest, the woman of the family took out a little pot containing a strange mixture, which she had brought all the way from her home in the east. It was a precious recipe, guaranteed to soften the skin after it was exposed to wind and inclement weather. Patiently, there in the dead night, with only a tiny flickering candle to guide her, this pioneer woman set out to make herself beautiful.

You have this extract from the diary of a woman, dated July 15, 1861, to realize just how absorbed our grandmothers were in beauty culture:

"Dissolve one pound of epsom salts in one quart of rain water. Shave fine, three bars of white soap, and dissolve in one quart of boiling rain water, and when partly cooled, heat in the epsom salt solution. Now add two more quarts of rain water, and it is ready for use. At night rub the preparation on such parts of the body as you wish to reduce and let it dry in. Continue until desired results are obtained—also take juice of one-half lemon in cup of hot water three quarters of an hour before breakfast. Average reduction, two pounds per week."

"Tried by M. E. Steele and found good."

How many modern women would go to this trouble to prepare a reducing compound? Digging into days gone by only makes me more cognizant of the fact that today there is actually no excuse for lack of beauty, for scientific preparations and proven methods are at our command.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The less said in a family newspaper the better, concerning the feelings of Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the Democratic national committee, and anti-Al Smith factions of the Democratic party—

Does it become apparent why Editor Walsmley's activities drive Chairman Shouse to the verge of language which would not look well in any family newspaper?

And, believe me, the anti-Al Smith Democrats are making the most of Editor Walsmley's utterances through The Challenge's columns.

"What of it?" demands Editor Walsmley, belligerently.

"Last November the south gave a grudging three million votes to the Democratic ticket. The north gave an enthusiastic twelve million."

"Which group is best worth keeping?"

"Reunite them? Pooh! As well try to mix oil and water."

"The Challenge's motto," continued the editor, "is undying hostility to intolerance in all its forms. We ask no quarter and we give none."

"I oppose no man's religion."

"Though affiliated with no church or creed myself, I believe in the excellence of religious influences—outside politics."

"The church and state must be divorced absolutely."

"The Challenge never will attack a man for his religious faith, but it certainly will attack him if his attempts to make it political."

As folk may have heard, even at considerable distance, bitter strife is raging at present between rival Democratic elements in Virginia.

Chairman Shouse is working long hours as a would-be peacemaker.

How much good Editor Walsmley's ebullitions do him may be

"Dear Doctor: Please write something on how to have a smooth, clear complexion."

It does all the organs, including the intestines. The exercise of the trunk muscles are especially valuable, and so is brisk walking. A good way to use rouge is to secrete it three or four miles away, and walk every day to it, before applying!

Daily stimulation of the skin by air and sunshine and scrubbing with soap and water, help to keep it in good condition.

If you want a good, clear complexion, practice all of the known hygienic habits, for then you will also have better health, and good health and good complexion usually go together.

I suggest you send for our articles on Balanced Diet, Acne and the Tummy Ten for more points on this question. (Follow column rules.)

"I am very much annoyed by the formation of a drop of water at the end of my nose. I am frequently unconscious of this until I see someone looking intently at me. It is really very embarrassing. What can I do to overcome this condition?"

"MISS P."

"I am afraid that there is a chronic irritation of the mucous membrane of the nose so that there is a constant watery secretion, Miss P. And evidently there must be some anesthesia, or lack of sensitiveness, there, so that your nose knows not. You should go to a physician who specializes in the nose, throat and ear."

In the meantime, evidently you must get into the habit of applying a handkerchief frequently. How about your general health?

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am an ardent reader of your column, and have come to you for aid. I am 18 and my boy friend is 20. We broke up a short time ago about nothing at all. I love this boy and he loves me, but he's so stubborn he won't even speak to or look at me. He has never been out with a girl besides me. Do you think he still loves me? Should I speak first or just forget him?"

"TOMMY."

As you love him and think he loves you, I believe I'd make an effort to make up by speaking first, and if he won't respond, forget him.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a young man 19 years old. My sister kept steady company with a young man for eight years, then a young girl broke them up and I swore revenge.

"I have gotten revenge, but it has left me with an uneasy conscience. I went with this girl for about three months and she has repeatedly told me she loves me, but I hate her for what she did to my sister. If it had been the first time I would let it pass, but it is not. I have stopped keeping company with her and she says I have hurt her feelings and broken her heart, but I think it is what she deserves. Please tell me whether I am right or wrong."

"When I am introduced to a person for the first time I am kind of shy and cannot find a topic to talk about. For that reason I talk about the current events of the day. After I have known them for about a month and have seen them frequently they will call at the house or phone three or four times a week for about half a year. After that time they hardly know me when they see me on the street. Can you explain the reason?"

"UNEASY."

I don't blame you for being angry at the girl for causing your sister pain, but it is seldom wise for a mere "erring human" as you say, to undertake to avenge another's wrong.

In the first place, you may be

Pot Roast Beef—Two pounds beef, one-fourth pound suet, two cloves, one bay leaf, two slices onion, one carrot, sliced fine, one tablespoon flour, one-half pint boiling water, salt and pepper. Put the suet in a kettle and add the onions, bay leaf, cloves and carrot; let it cook five minutes and get very hot. Put in the meat, well seasoned with salt and pepper, and brown it on both sides. Add the water, cover closely and simmer until very tender. As it cooks, add boiling water to keep the quantity the same as at first. Remove roast from pot and thicken the liquor remaining with the flour. Strain and serve it in a sauceboat.

Suggestions
Dressing Up Ice Cream

When you are having ice cream for dessert, why don't you dress it up so that it has an original look as well as a delicious flavor? A brick of chocolate ice may be combined with orange ice. After taking it from the container, dress it with sause and orange. First grate orange peel and mix it with sugar. Sprinkle this over the orange ice. A spoonful of chocolate sauce goes over the chocolate, and blending the two in flavor you may use a spoonful of whipped cream. This goes on only when you're young, since the almond is delightful with the fresh orange and the rich chocolate.

Simple Lunch
Simple salted crackers with a tart jam or jelly and cheese are tasty bites for a warm day meal.

Iced Tea
Tea. Sprays of mint. Two or three tablespoons sugar. This may be made as simply as the coffee. But here is way that makes iced tea a super delicacy and flavor. Lay sprays of mint slightly crushed in a saucer, cover with sugar and let stand half an hour at least. Lay a tea ball or two on top of the mint and sugar and pour boiling water over the whole; strain and chill.

Raw Carrot Salad—Cut rather thick rings of green pepper and pile within ground carrot and chopped celery. Nuts add to the flavor, as does a bit of onion juice.

VISITORS SHUT OUT WITH SEVEN HITS; RESERVES SPARKLE

Millard Permits Locals
But Seven Hits
Also

Dick Wells, that sensational Cedarville southpaw artist, who seems headed for the major leagues, pitched the Reserves to a 5 to 0 shutout victory over the H. and B. O'To Shoppe nine, of Dayton, Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, enabling the local talent to hang up its twenty-first victory of the season.

This team was booked in place of the Dayton Shroyer Cubs, runners-up in the recent amateur tournament of the National Baseball Federation and is rated as the second best club in the Gem City as much as it lost to the Shroyers in a play-off series to decide the city championship and Dayton's representative in the national amateur tourney.

Wells was in great form. He allowed seven hits that were well distributed, struck out seven batters and exhibited perfect control. He was particularly effective with runners on base and only one Dayton player progressed beyond the middle station.

His Jack Dempsey ball came in weaving and bobbing over the plate and he mixed his fast one with a nice change of pace that had the opposition completely baffled. Two snappy double plays aided his cause as well as the well-nigh perfect support he was accorded both at bat and in the field.

Millard, Dayton pitcher, also yielded only seven hits and his puzzling style of delivery had the Reserves fooled until the latter part of the contest.

For five innings the game was a tight mound battle. Reserves tallied one run in the third when Wells showed the way to his teammates with a double to left with one down, went to third on a sacrifice fly to Langlois and scored when Behrie juggled Harlow's roller and then pegged wildly to first.

The score remained at 1 to 0 until the sixth when the Reserves bunched two hits, which with a sacrifice and an error, were good for a pair of runs. "Chick" Harlow opened the frame with a single, his first safe blow since joining the Reserves several weeks ago. This apparently cheered the team. Conley laid down a nice bunt and while he was being thrown out at first, Harlow made second easily, but overslid the bag. Trapped between second and third he finally got back safely. A single by Durnbaugh advanced him to third and Durnbaugh took second on the throw-in.

Harlow and Shuey, the next batter, then collaborated to score a run. As Millard wound up Harlow raced for the plate but Shuey's attempted bunt went foul. The experiment was on the new pitch with more success as Harlow scored and Shuey reached first when Eckert fumbled his easy roller. Durnbaugh took third and scored as Cyphers was being retired at first.

In the eighth the Reserves solved Millard's underhand delivery and slow, teasing curve for three hits and one less run. It was Harlow who again opened with a hit, this time a smashing double to right center. Conley lofted to center, Harlow racing to third after the catch. Durnbaugh came through with a line single to center and Harlow strolled home. Another run resulted when Durnbaugh stole second and Shuey doubled to left center. Cyphers fled out to left and Shuey went to third but was called out for leaving second before the catch was made. However, it made no difference.

Harlow and Durnbaugh led the attack of the Reserves, each with two hits. Conley and Langlois at second and short, got everything that came their way, handled jester changes between them cleanly and were responsible for two double plays.

Dayton had only one good opportunity to score, namely, in the first inning when Behrie, first batter, hit safely past third. Dadisman bunted and was safe when nobody covered first. Behrie advanced to third on a sacrifice fly by Gross. On an attempted double steal Behrie was nipped at the plate while Dadisman reached second. Shadleskey popped to Weller for the final out. After that Wells was invincible.

It was expected that Sunday's game was the final of the season but the Dayton nine challenged the Reserves for a return contest here next Sunday on a winner take all basis and as a result the season will be wound up next week.

Ralph Scurry, former Xenia Central High colored star athlete, who enrolled at Wilberforce University this fall and went out for football, is making the grade. Scurry made the all-Miami Valley League mythical team last year and ranks high among the new men. His ability to punt and carry the ball has earned him the reputation of being a pre-season sensation and he is expected to break into many games this fall.

Forecasting the result of twenty-two of the more important collegiate football games Saturday, Bill Jacobs correctly predicted twenty winners. He went wrong on only two games. Instead of winning, Case lost to Baldwin-Wallace, 6 to 0, while the Wilberforce and Bluefield Institute game ended in a tie, which does not count one way or the other. The preceding week Birch Bell selected sixteen winners without a mistake. This gave Xenia fans a record of thirty-six winners out of thirty-seven games for a percentage of .972. Not so worse. Jake predicted these winners:

Carnegie Tech, 26, Thiel, 0. Cincinnati, 12; Ohio Northern, 0. Denison, 20; Muskingum, 0. Detroit, 18; Dayton, 0. Harvard, 48; Bates, 0. Wooster, 33; Hiram, 0. Illinois, 25; Kansas, 0. Notre Dame, 14; Indiana, 0. Michigan, 17; Michigan State, 0. New York U, 26; W. Va. Wesleyan, 0.

Northwestern, 13; Butler, 0. Ohio State, 19; Wittenberg, 0. Ohio Wesleyan, 51; Heidelberg, 20. St. Xavier, 25; Georgetown, 13. Army, 33; Gettysburg, 7. Navy, 15; Williams-Mary, 0. Wash. and Jeff., 60; Ashland, 0. Miami, 18; Western Reserve, 0. Wisconsin, 13; Colgate, 6. Yale, 89; Vermont, 0.

Jake missed this one: Baldwin-Wallace, 6; Chase, 0.

HUNTER HORSE WINS

Bill Rogers, owned by N. N. Hunter, Jamestown sportsman became the third gray trotter out of Belle Strong, 2:15-14, to join the select list when he won the three-year-old trot at the recent Cincinnati grand circuit meeting. It is said that Belle Strong is the only mare credited with three trotters of this color with records of 2:10 or better, and also the dam of Mary Ward, 2:09-1:2, a bay. Belle Strong is a gray and her sire, Strong Boy, 2:11-14, one-time champion, was also a gray.

SPRINGFIELD WINS

Springfield High School, which meets Xenia Central High in the annual Turkey Day classic this fall, sprang a surprise by defeating a much heavier Columbus North eleven, 6 to 0 at Springfield Saturday afternoon. The lone touchdown of the game came in the fourth

CEDARVILLE HOLDS STRONG WILMINGTON ELEVEN TO TIE

Rising to heights never before attained by a Cedarville College team in any form of athletics since 1918, the 1929 football team representing that institution astonished by battling the heavy Wilmington College eleven to a scoreless Saturday afternoon on the Quaker gridiron.

Athletic supremacy of Wilmington over Cedarville extends back to 1918 but the Cedarville team Saturday was the strongest that had faced the Quakers in years and "Shifty" Bolen's pets were fought to a standstill.

Five Wilmington regulars were on the injured list and played only in the closing minutes of the game when a forty-yard drive for a touchdown was halted by the stubborn "Yellow-Jacket" eleven on the eight-yard line by the final gun.

Four different times during the game Wilmington was inside Cedarville's ten-yard line but lacked the necessary punch to score on several occasions and penalties at other times set it back.

Cedarville never threatened on offense but contented itself with holding the home team on even terms. It was a moral victory if nothing else for the Borstmen as Wilmington has won annually from Cedarville in football since 1918.

Wilmington registered ten first downs as compared with four for Cedarville. Cedarville's brightest stars were Smith at end and Turner at fullback. For Wilmington Dan Deinenbach, of West Alexandria, was outstanding at tackle with Fred Smith and Paul Boxwell, Xenia backfield stars, showing good form. Blocking of Davis, Wilmington halfback, was also spectacular.

Cedarville has a return game with Wilmington at home later in the season. Next Saturday Coach Borst's team plays at Ohio Northern. Ohio Northern lost to the University of Cincinnati, 12 to 0 Saturday. The Bearcats beat Cedarville, 19 to 0 so a close game is expected.

Making its debut of the 1929 season, Xenia's independent football team, the Imperials, went down to a 6 to 0 defeat in a game with the Tipp City Merchants Sunday afternoon at Tippecanoe City.

Millard, Dayton pitcher, also yielded only seven hits and his puzzling style of delivery had the Reserves fooled until the latter part of the contest.

For five innings the game was a tight mound battle. Reserves tallied one run in the third when Wells showed the way to his teammates with a double to left with one down, went to third on a sacrifice fly to Langlois and scored when Behrie juggled Harlow's roller and then pegged wildly to first.

The lone touchdown of the game came shortly after the opening kick-off when the Merchants worked the ball to the twenty-yard line, from where Butch Meyers, Tipp back, circled end for a score. The attempt for extra point failed.

During the remainder of the game the contending teams battled on practically even terms. The Imperials once penetrated inside Tipp's ten-yard line but here the defense of the Merchants stiffened and then Xenia lost possession of the ball on a fumble. That was the only other chance either team had to score.

Considering the fact it was the first game for the Imperials and also that the Xenia team had but an even dozen players available for the game, the showing was encouraging.

The Imperials were greatly outweighted but not outplayed.

Yeakley, Parks, Anderson, Perrine, Keiter and Knick showed to good advantage for the losers. The backfield was made up of Williams, Webb and Clark, Dayton players, and Anderson, Murray, L. McCoy and Davis also saw action.

CHATTY GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDER," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

CHAPTER XLVIII

She hung up and went to her apartment. To the devil and Tom Walker with this being good! It didn't get you anywhere? Where had it got Billie? Where Winnie? For Winnie was only rough and loud, Chatty knew, not a bad girl. Where had it got Agnes? Where had it got her? Nowhere! Hurrah for whoopee and Lollipop Inn!

To prove it, she threw herself on her bed and cried again, hard and long.

Then she bathed her eyes and made up her face, changed her dress and went out of the apartment.

"Pud? Oh, Pud!"

"Uumph!" answered Pud. "Lemme lone!"

"Want to make a dollar?"

"Money talks!" cried Pud, coming on the run. "What you want me to do for a dollar?"

"Swear you'll keep your mouth shut, first!"

"Word of honor!"

Chatty took a five-dollar bill out of her slender purse.

"Go get me some gin, and bring it to me, don't let anyone see you!"

Pud looked startled, then grinned.

"On my way!" he said.

A still, small voice clamored for Chatty's attention. She knew what it was trying to say to her: "What a terrible thing to do—help make your own little brother a bootlegger! Send him to do the very thing you've fought against his doing; confessing to him that you think more of a drink than of his morals!"

But Chatty wouldn't listen. She thrust the thought from her.

"What's it to me? They can all go to the devil, for all I care!" she told herself, passionately. "Pud, too! I don't care, I tell you, I don't care!"

Chatty walked the floor of her room, back and forth, back and forth, hideously anxious for Pud.

There would come a reaction, she knew.

"But by the time that comes I won't care!" she declared to herself. For once Chatty didn't deceive herself.

"Chatty! Oh, Chatty!" Her mother's pleasant voice interrupted her evil thoughts.

"Yes, mother!" Chatty's voice was impatient. She didn't want to see or talk to her mother just now.

"Come here, dear, I want you."

Chatty came out of her room, rebellious. "Well, what is it?" she snapped. "I'm busy—"

"I'm sorry. But I want you to take this dress and go to the north side with it, after dinner. Do you mind? I'm too tired to go myself—"

"I've a date, I can't take it!" answered Chatty, shortly. "I can't

The Theater

Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and of the Vitaphone Corporation, once helped operate a bicycle shop in Youngstown, O., at the height of the bicycle craze.

Harry was born in Russia but came to this country when he was six years of age, the family settling in Baltimore. Through school he obtained a position with Armour and Co., and soon became a salesman. He remained in that position some years, and then opened the bicycle shop with his three brothers.

When they saw the motion picture they believed it a coming in-

Harry brought his three brothers with him to produce a motion picture based on Ambassador James W. Gerard's book, "My Four Years in Germany." Success put them back on the movie map. Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., was soon organized and expanded rapidly. A studio in Hollywood was acquired and Vitaphone Pictures was purchased, giving them an Eastern studio and a series of exchanges.

Then came their venture in talking pictures after all other producers had turned the idea down. Under their auspices, after many weary months of experiment and the expenditure of a great amount of money, Vitaphone was introduced to the public at Warner Bros. Theater in New York the night of Tuesday, August 6, 1926. That night proved a historic event in motion pictures, from it developing Vitaphone talking pictures, features and short subjects, which put Warners at the top of the industry. The Stanley Co. of America was purchased and First National Pictures, Inc., became a subsidiary of Warners. The firm of Witmark and Sons, music publishers, was also purchased to give the company access to a vast amount of published music.

George Marion will portray the father role he created on the stage in the talkie version of "Anna Christie", featuring Greta Garbo. Marion also played the same part in the earlier Thomas Ince picture of Eugene O'Neill's famous play. Charlie Bickford will play opposite Garbo if he completes his current job in time. The late William Russell was the star in the Ince version of this picture. The picture will be directed by Clarence Brown and is the Garbo's first talkie effort.

Theda Bara is going in vaudeville and the column today shows her on her way.

Twenty Years '09- Ago '29

Four of the Pennsylvania passenger trains, two through flyers and two locals, were delayed in Xenta for a time because of a blockade at Trebeins caused by a burning oil car.

Frank Mitchner, tenant on a farm on the Wilmington Pike, was thrown from his horse and his left leg was so severely sprained he is obliged to use a crutch in walking.

Mr. Andrew Haninger arrived home from his hunting trip in Manitoba.

Industry and acquired the Cascade Theater in Newcastle, Pa. They made money and decided to branch out, opening a film exchange in Pittsburgh and again prospering. As a result they opened branches in other cities.

Next the Warner boys went into the market and bought feature pictures which they released under the title of Warner Features, becoming active competitors in the film industry. A few years later they were forced to abandon their exchanges and Warner Features, and for the first time in many years the brothers went separate ways.

It was not long however until

MUSIC FOR TYPISTS

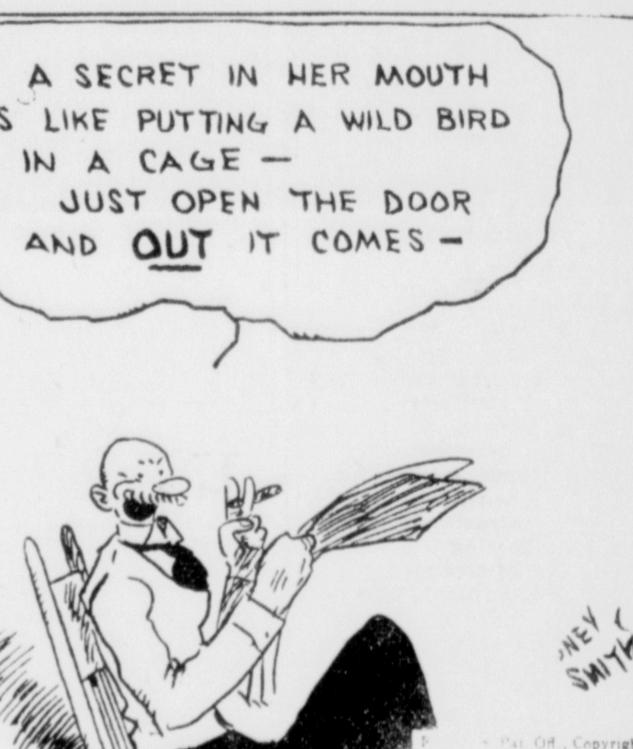

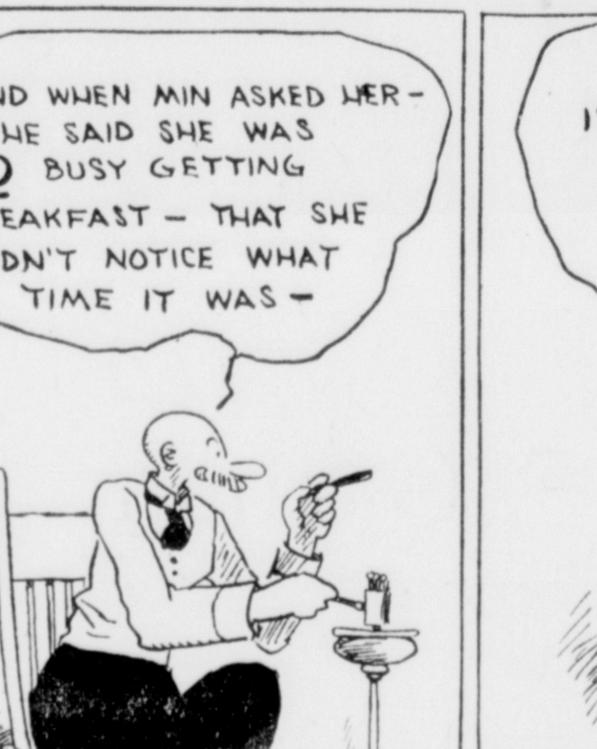

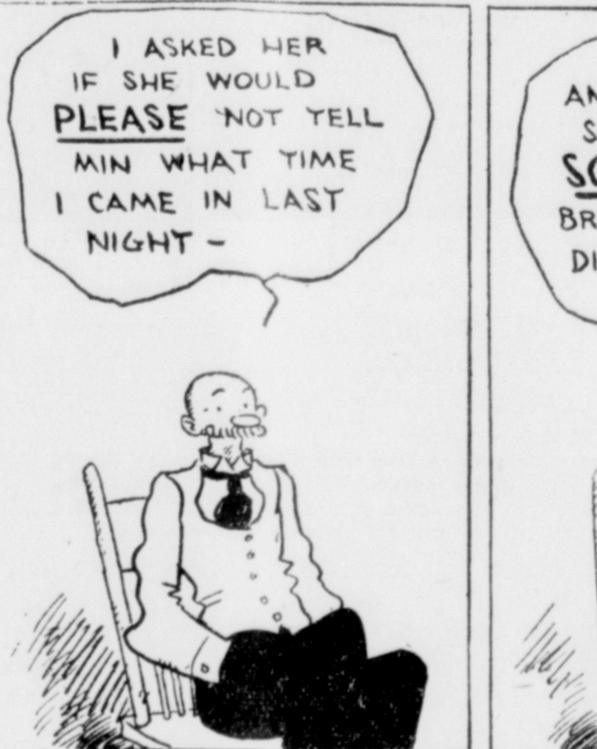

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 7.—Typewriting pupils in the commercial department of the Manheim Township High School near here have music while they work, not for pleasure, but to help them. In order to attain speed at typewriting each pupil must acquire a certain rhythm in striking the keyboard. John F. Lotz, the instructor explained. "In an endeavor to reach rhythm and timing we hit upon the modern reproducing machine. Popular marches that carry the same rhythm throughout are used," he said.

CAP! CAP! CAP STUBBS!—Cap Has To Superintend Th' Job!

AND SPRAYING ARE NEED OF POTATOES

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7.—Neither good seed alone, nor a lot of fertilizer alone, nor much spraying alone, will make a profitable crop of potatoes; it takes a combination of all three. Exact details of the cost of producing a bushel of potatoes have been collected from growers of 762 acres in Ohio, by E. B. Tussing, extension specialist in vegetable gardening for the Ohio State University here.

Tussing discovered that the men who raised 350 bushels or more to the acre, did so at an average cost of less than thirty-five cents a bushel. The men whose yields fell below 100 bushels to the acre, paid out $1.64 for each bushel which they obtained—a figure considerably higher than the price received for their potatoes.

The men whose yields fell between 100 and 200 bushels to the acre paid slightly over seventy-seven cents a bushel, not counting the cost of labor in grading and marketing, with the result that they lost money on their crops.

The men harvesting less than one hundred bushels to the acre planted more seed potatoes, by one bushel to the acre, than the men who harvested more than 350 bushels an acre, and the cost of their seed was higher.

For manure, green manure, and commercial fertilizer the men with the biggest yields paid the highest amounts per acre. They spent $37.40 an acre for fertility while the 100 and 200 bushel men spent $24.10, and the less than 100 bushel men spent $33.04.

When it comes to spraying the men with the highest yields sprayed their crops an average of 9.7 times during the season, at a cost of $7.57 an acre. The men who grew 100 to 200 bushels sprayed seven times during the season at a cost of $6.61 an acre, and the men who got less than 100 bushels an acre sprayed only 5.6 times at a cost of $3.62.

CAT MOTHERS TWO MOTHERLESS PUPS

POMEROY, O., Oct. 7.—Every so often nature nods, and Meigs County is not immune from such happenings.

Probably the most unique occurrence of an incident so contrary to nature, occurred at the home of Isaac Lambert, who resides on a farm near Bradbury, this county.

On the same day, a Maltese cat gave birth to several kittens and a fox terrier gave birth to two puppies. In less than three days the mother dog and the kittens died.

The mother instinct of the cat prompted her to adopt the two little three-day-old puppies. The little dogs are fine and healthy and the cat is just as proud of them as if they were her own. When they get into trouble she goes to their aid. When they fight she separates them. She feeds them regularly and does everything which a devout mother kitten should do.

STATE FUNDS WILL MEET 1929 EXPENSES

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7.—The state of Ohio will have sufficient revenue to meet estimated expenditures during 1929, according to a survey by the Research and Information Department of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

A study of receipts to date indicate that the forecast of $32,195,000 for the general fund, made in January of this year, is being revised. Franchise taxes collected thus far are $5,610,379 as compared with an estimate of $5,570,000 for the entire year. This collection thus exceeds the estimate by $40,000.

Incorporation fees for the first seven months of this year amounted to $971,781. The estimate for the entire year is $1,400,000.

Inheritance taxes amounted to $1,352,647 on July 31. The estimate for the year is $2,500,000.
